By an Expreſs with Letters from his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, of the 25th paſt from Montroſe, there are the following Advices:

They write from Aberdeen of the 23d Inſtant, that on Friday the 21ſt, a Ship of about 150 Tons Burthen, with French Colours, came into that Road about Six at Night, and fired two or three Guns; upon which the Rebels ſent off a Boat to her, which returned about Eight, and brought aſhore two Officers, who, after ſome Conſultation, went on Board again, and carried ſeven or eight Boats, with an Intention, as it was thought, to land their Men; but they return'd empty, and the Ship went off, as is ſaid, for Peterhead, and ſome People went from Aberdeen to meet them there: It is ſaid the ſaid Ship had Money, Arms, Cannon and Ammunition on Board, but it ſeems was not to deliver the Money, but by ſome particular Order of one Boyer, whom they call a French Ambaſſador, and who is with the Pretender's Son.

That upon Saturday the 22d, about Five of the Clock in the Afternoon, another Ship came about from Stonehaven, of about 100 Tons Burthen, of no Force, and anchor'd in the Road of Aberdeen, and between Eight and Ten at Night landed about 130 Men, including five Officers. They were cloathed with Red turned up with Blue: They alſo landed a Parcel of Saddles, and ſome Horſe Furniture, and ſome other Horſemens Arms and Breaſt Plates; many of them are Engliſh and Iriſh. They carried nine or ten Cart and twenty Pack Loads of Baggage with them. Upon Sunday the 23d they marched from Aberdeen, as did all the Rebels that were then there, partly by Old Meldrum, which is twelve Miles diſtant, and partly by Newburgh, which is the Road to Peterhead. Thoſe that marched from Aberdeen laſt, were commanded by Moir of Stonywood, being about 100, including Parties they were to get in, and about 50 Horſe, whom they call Huſſars, under one Colonel Baggot a Frenchman. Thoſe who landed from the French Ship report, that there ſailed five Ships in all from Dunkirk, and that the other three Ships were larger, and contained more Men, and could not be far from the Scotch Coaſt.

Lord George Murray, with thoſe under his Command, is ſaid to have marched from Elgin on Tueſday and Wedneſday the 18th and 19th Inſtant. Lord Ogilvy's Men, and ſome others, being about 450, marched from Aberdeen on Tueſday the 18th; and on Monday the 17th the Men from Cromar and Braemar, ſaid to be about 250, marched from Cromar. The Strath Boggie Foot marched alſo by Clat to Strath Boggie the Highway; the Number of them are not certainly known, but ſaid to be about 150.

They

[Price Two-Pence.]

They were alſo raiſing ſome Men laſt Week in Buchan in Bamffſhire, in their Way North.

Advices from the more Northern Parts mention, that on Sunday the 16th, the main Body of the Rebels were within 14 Miles of Inverneſs, but had then an advanced Party the Length of the Water of Nairn, four Miles South of Inverneſs, where Lord Loudoun's advanced Party from Inverneſs met them, and a ſmall Skirmiſh happen'd, but of no Conſequence: That on Monday Lord Loudoun's People retired to Inverneſs, and that Day the Rebels advanced within two Miles of that Town; and that thereupon Lord Loudoun finding he was not able to defend the Town, croſſed the Bridge on Tueſday, and, by the Ferry of Keſſocks, got over to the Shire of Roſs, and that very Day the Rebels got Poſſeſſion of the Town of Inverneſs: However, a proper Supply of Men was put into the Caſtle, and Major Grant the Governor was determined to hold out as long as poſſible: That thoſe Rebels, which went by Aberdeen, all croſſed the Spey upon Thurſday laſt, except Lord Ogilvy and his Men, who were that Night at a Village called Keith, within ſix Miles of Spey, and are ſuppoſed to be by this Time at Inverneſs; and that they had publiſhed an Order, declaring it Death to any who ſhould convey Letters to, or correſpond with the Friends of the Government.

Further Accounts from the Neighbourhood of Inverneſs ſay, that the Rebels were attempting to form a Blockade from the Town of Inverneſs, in order to mount their Cannon upon Thurſday laſt, and that the Garriſon were firing very briskly upon them. It is added, that the Lord Preſident's Houſe had been plundered.

Upon theſe Advices, and the Poſſibility that the Rebels might attempt to ſlip again into the Low Lands, as alſo the different Accounts received of Troops coming from France, of which one Tranſport is actually diſembarked, and five of them in all are expected, his Royal Highneſs the Duke has countermanded the Re-embarkation of the Heſſians, and has ordered the Tranſports to proceed immediately to Shields, to take on board the Dutch Troops, and to ſail with a ſufficient Convoy to Willemſtadt, and after having landed the ſaid Troops, to return to Leith. His Royal Highneſs has alſo wrote to Prince Frederick of Heſſe to march immediately four Battalions to Perth, and two to Stirling: St. George's Dragoons will be cantoned at Earn Bridge; and the two Remains of Naizon's and Hamilton's Dragoons will be cantoned at Bannock Burn near Stirling. With this Cavalry, which will be left under the Command of the Earl of Craufurd, the Prince of Heſſe will have a ſufficient Corps to deal with the Rebels, ſhould they either attempt to avoid the Duke of Cumberland, by going South, or to attack the Poſts at Blair, Caſtle Menzie, &c. and Bligh's Battalion are to hold themſelves in Readineſs to march. His Royal Highneſs the Duke propoſes to be at Aberdeen the Day after To-morrow; and upon Advice of the Arrival of the French Ships on this Coaſt, diſpatched on Sunday the Hound Sloop, which was in this Port, Northward, in Queſt of them, with Orders to go to Aberdeen and Peterhead, and further North, if by any Intelligence there ſhould be Encouragement to come up with any of them; and the Glouceſter appearing off this Harbour Yeſterday, the like Orders were ſent to the Captain of her.

Other Accounts from Aberdeen make the main Body of the Rebels, which marched for Inverneſs, amount to 4000 Men or more.

Admiralty-Office, March 4.

Yeſterday Morning Advice was received, that Capt. Stevens, Commander of his Majeſty's Ship the Portland, arrived on Wedneſday laſt at Plymouth, with his Prize the Auguſta French Man of War of 50 Guns.
